FEBRUARY 12, 2007

US Poster For Everything's Gone Green, Plus Yet Another Example of Extreme Foolishness From the MPAA ...

(Posted in Comedy Drama Film News USA and Canada)

The US poster for Everything's Gone Green, the film scripted by author Douglas Coupland, has just hit the web and while I greatly prefer the Canadian one myself – you can see that here – this is noteworthy thanks to the general idiocy of the MPAA.

See, this poster should've been done a while ago. But the MPAA wouldn't allow the original design to be used because it included a pot leaf within it. And, bizarrely, they have also hit the film with an R rating, meaning nobody under 18 can go see it without being accompanied by an adult. Now, I've seen this film and it aint R rated. Here in Canada the harshest rating it has received is 14A – adult accompaniment under 14 – with most provinces giving it a PG and Quebec actually rating it General Admission. Go figure.

Check a larger version of the poster here.
Official Website Here.

My review here.

» Posted by Todd at February 12, 2007 12:11 PM
Digg This / Add To del.icio.us

www.twitchfilm.com

READER COMMENTS